Call to prosecute officers, sacked for missing man search misconduct

POLICE SHOULD FACE A COURT SAYS FATHER

TRAGEDY: Kyle Brooks died in October 2014 after being hit by a vehicle on the A12; a police search to find him proved fruitless

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

TWO police officers sacked after they lied about a search for a pedestrian who was killed after being hit by a car should face prosecution, the man's father said this week.

PC Joanne Jeggo and PC John Simpson were called to reports of Kyle Brooks, 28, walking in the A12 near Chelmsford, on October 30, 2014, but did not find him after a search and he later died after being struck by a vehicle.

A misconduct panel heard the pair, based in Colchester, made false statements about seeking more information about the man's whereabouts.

Mr Brooks' father Robert, 59, said he would be seeking legal advice and wanted the pair to face prosecution.

"I don't feel there has been any justice," he said. "I couldn't give a monkey if they got the sack or not. It's not going to bring my son back. I would like to see them both go to prison."

The independent panel, headed by Neil Dalton, found the officers' actions in relation to the search for Mr Brooks amounted to misconduct.

And the officers' response to the allegations, which included statements that were determined to be false, amounted to gross misconduct, the panel ruled. Both officers were dismissed with immediate effect.

SEARCH: A12 chaos on the day Kyle Brooks died on the A12

Mr Brooks said: "It makes me feel sick to the stomach. No-one knows if Kyle would still be alive but he could be and we will never know the answer to that."

"At the end of the day if they'd done their job properly or reacted differently my son could still be alive today."

He added: "I knew it was coming months ago but we wasn't allowed to talk about it. It's been a nightmare."

"For the two police officers to stand up and physically lie. I've lost all faith in the police.

"I can't change what happened and I've got no sympathy for them losing their jobs."

Mr Brooks also paid tribute to his son, calling him "a son any parent would be proud of".

He said: "My son was a very popular young man. I've never heard a bad word said about him. He's a son any parent would be proud of."

"I couldn't have wished for a better son. It was a pleasure to have him as my boy."

After the conclusion of the misconduct hearings, the Independent Police Complaints Commission's final report is now being considered for publication.

Hunt for suspects in OAP cash theft

Thieves stole four-figure sum from 80-year-old

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

TWO people suspected of cash from an elderly woman after she withdrew it from a bank in Harlow town centre are being sought by police.

The victim, an 80-year-old woman, had withdrawn the four-figure sum from the East Gate branch of Lloyds Bank at 11.25am on March 23.

An envelope containing the money was removed from her bag after she left the bank.

Police have released a CCTV image of the pair they want to question. Anyone who can identify them is asked to contact PC Carl Wright at Harlow police station on the non-emergency 101 number or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Police are also appealing for information after a man stole a handbag and cash from the home of an elderly woman in Harlow.

The man was allowed into the victim's home in Halling

Gang threaten Tesco staff in store raid

STAFF at a Tesco store in Harlow were threatened by a gang of men who broke in to the premises and stole several mobile phones.

Police were called to the Edinburgh Way store shortly after 1am on Monday.

The raiders are believed to have gained entry after forcing open a door to an associated Costa coffee shop.

The men were all wearing tracksuit bottoms, dark hooded tops with scarves over their faces and gloves. They arrived at the store in a Ford van which was later found in Ladysmith by police officers.

An 18-year-old man from London and a 15-year-old youth from Harlow were arrested on suspicion of aggravated burglary and taken to Harlow police station for questioning.

Police are appealing anyone with information regarding the raid or who has been offered a new mobile phone for sale is asked to call 101.

Motorcyclist's death a tragic accident says Essex coroner

AN inquest has heard how a motorcyclist suffered fatal injuries in road accident in the early hours of Christmas Eve two years ago.

Jonathan Aicken, known to his friends as 'Panda', died as the result of the injuries he sustained after his Yamaha motorbike was in collision with a BMW car in Tylers Road, Roydon, on December 24, 2014.

Coroners' officer Linda Calder told Chelmsford Coroners Court that for some unknown reason Mr Aicken, 24, of Foldcroft, Harlow, slipped from his bike and slid along the carriageway.

She said a pathologist had given the cause of death as multiple injuries. A post mortem investigation had shown there were no signs of alcohol or drugs present in his blood.

MUCH-LOVED: Jonathan 'Panda' Aicken

Accident investigator PC Duncan Thurlwell said his conclusion was Mr Aicken had lost control while on a left hand bend and collided with the car.

The inquest was told the BMW failed to stop after the accident but there was no guarantee the driver was aware they had collided with a motorcyclist.

Recording a verdict of accidental death, Essex coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray described the accident as a tragedy, telling members of Mr Aicken's family who attended the inquest: "He was clearly much-loved by you all."

Three people are due to stand trial at the crown court after being charged with perverting the course of justice following the accident. One is also charged with failing to stop and failing to report an accident.

Friends of popular teenager planning to hold second mass bike ride across town

FRIENDS of a Harlow teenager who died 10 weeks ago are planning to hold a second mass motorcycle ride in his memory.

Former Passmores Academy student Marcel Bellairs-Honiss died on Sunday, March 6.

The following week his friends held a bike ride as a tribute to him and they are planning another this weekend on what would have been his 17th birthday.

Hundreds of people lined the streets for the first ride which began in Bush Fair and made its way around the town centre before finishing in Barn Mead.

While the majority of people were well behaved, police reported they had to deal with a number of incidents of anti-social behaviour and have asked those taking part in Saturday's ride to make sure there is no repeat of those incidents.

Inspector James Paget of Harlow

police said: "We absolutely respect the need for Marcel's friends to come together and remember a life lost so tragically young."

"But illegal or anti-social behaviour using motorcycles causes alarm and distress to local people, particularly vulnerable people."

He added: "Spontaneous rideouts involving illegal or irresponsible behaviour can mean losing you bike, being fined or charged."

Lily, 13, reprises her role in charity's sequel video

Films aim to highlight the suffering of Syrian child refugees

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER from Harlow who appeared in a charity's film about the refugee crisis has reprised her role for the sequel.

Lily Aslandogdu stars in Still the Most Shocking Second A Day which tells the fictitious story of British child refugees fleeing a UK civil war in search of safety.

It was filmed by Save The Children to bring attention to the plight of real child refugees caught up in the ongoing civil war in Syria.

The film is a follow-up to Most Shocking Second A Day which went viral when it was released in 2014. It follows the beginnings of the conflict as seen through the eyes of a small girl played by Lily.

Viewed

The girl, who is also called Lily, is forced to move home and loses family members in the fighting. The video has now been viewed more than 53 million times.

The new 90-second clip tugs on the heartstrings as the girl's life is turned upside down one second at a time. As the film ends the message 'It's Happening Here, It's Happening Now' is displayed before offering viewers the chance to donate to the charity's crisis appeal.

Thirteen-year-old Lily, who is a student at Burnt Mill Academy, said: "When I heard there was going to be a sequel I thought it was amazing as it means I get to help more people."

"It was filmed in April during the Easter holiday in both London and Essex. The explosions you see were done against a green screen."

STARRING ROLE: Burnt Mill Academy student Lily Aslandogdu stars in the new Save the Children video

"The underwater scene was shot in Pinewood Studios, where James Bond was filmed. The scene on a boat was difficult for me as I can get sea sick, but I remembered what I was doing it for and that got me through."

Year 8 student Lily, who lives with her parents Sevet and Jacqui and older brother Jake, said: "We met up with a Syrian family to help with the filming to find out what they had gone through."

"They said that speaking in English they were able to talk about it because it felt like it was not real. But they were very emotional when they talked about it in Arabic."

She added "I think the video is really sad. It makes me feel very fortunate."

More than 325,000 children have crossed the Mediterranean and Aegean seas to escape the crisis and an estimated 340 youngsters have died since September.

Hospital to charge disabled visitors to park to fill fund gap

DISABLED drivers must now pay to park at Princess Alexandra Hospital as the trust tries to plug a £38m financial deficit.

Blue badge holders could previously park free of charge at the hospital, with other visitors and patients subject to a pay-and-display fee. Disabled drivers are now charged £2.50 for an eight-hour period, with no return within four hours.

The change, which goes against Government guidelines, has been criticised by Harlow MP Robert Halfon who has campaigned for all hospital parking fees to be scrapped.

Wrong

"It's completely wrong," he said. "I've asked to chief executive to look again at this decision."

The Princess Alexandra Hospital

NHS Trust, which recorded a deficit of £38m in the financial year 2015/16, said parking charges had previously been subsidised and that this "can no longer continue".

A spokeswoman for the trust said: "Patient care and safety is paramount at the trust and no longer subsidising areas such as car parking means that the hospital can channel the maximum resources it has into providing excellent patient care."

Standard parking charges have also been hiked, with the fee for the first two hours scrapped and replaced with a £3 charge for up to three hours.

The spokeswoman added: "Changes to the parking policy at the hospital were made following a large consultation with all staff and members of the Patient Panel."

Evictions are short-sighted

SIR, As the local county councillor I was invited to a meeting with the young people who are being evicted by East Thames Housing Association from Ocasio House.

Essex County Council has decided to change the criteria which means that many of the vulnerable young people are suddenly no longer considered vulnerable.

The first of more than 100 evictions start next month. Many of these young people haven't had the best start in life but with the support of staff at Ocasio House they have developed new skills and confidence. It appears to me a short-sighted decision and based on the principle of knowing the cost but not the value.

The county council is planning to save £180k but this will result in many being homeless or placed in low grade poor accommodation. The service isn't just about a bed but support, help and advice. We will see more young people out on the street as a result of this terrible decision.

It is a decision made in Chelmsford which will have a direct impact on us all. The young people need our collective support to try to save Ocasio House and the unique services it provides.

We need make sure the housing association maintains its key commitment to supporting these young people and we need our MP to tell his Tory friends at County Hall that this isn't fair, reasonable or sensible.

If we can't support our youth in Harlow then I feel it's a sad day for us all.

County Cllr Tony Durcan
Rundells, Harlow

Vulnerable need support

SIR, The local elections are over and now this town faces the prospect of young and vulnerable adults being removed from their homes at Ocasio House because its owners, East Thames Housing want to "change direction" - whatever that means.

Robert Halfon told me this country is bankrupt and then contradicts himself by telling me

We need a long-term solution, not a short-term fix

SIR, Essex County Council has launched a second consultation on plans to build a new M11 junction 7a via Gilden Way. We represent Old Harlow and the overwhelming majority of residents in our ward oppose this proposal.

Nobody denies the need for better roads in Harlow and improved access to the M11, but the Gilden Way proposal does not solve our town's traffic congestion problems at peak times.

It would be a short-term fix that would not address the real problems as housing and business developments continue to place a strain on our outdated local road network.

To ensure we attract continued business investment and provide better access for workers when the new Harlow Enterprise Zone opens, we have a different proposal. The county council should plan to solve long-term traffic problems in this corner of the eastern region, resume talks with Hertfordshire County Council and look at a northern route to cut traffic congestion across Harlow.

By connecting a new junction to the A414, both counties will benefit. It is true that a northern route would be an expensive option but we know from history that those who are bold, innovative and brave tend to succeed.

Essex County Council must listen to residents and not ignore the views of the majority. We are committed to fight the current plans for junction 7a with a newly formed resident-led campaign group that enjoys cross-party support. It is important that all Harlow residents submit their views during the consultation period and we will be helping those concerned about the proposal to send a response.

The town must unite and call on Essex County Council to invest in Harlow's long-term future. We believe that local economic growth is at risk if the council gets this decision wrong.

Cllr Joel Charles, Cllr Michael Garnett and Cllr Sue Livings
Civic Centre, Harlow

SIR, I attended last week's launch of the public consultation on a new junction 7a for the M11. Imagine my surprise to find no members of the public there.

Councillor Rodney Bass announced a project that flies in the face of local opinion, including all different local party councillors. While no other Labour councillors appear to have been invited, there was room for two councillors from Epping Forest.

Councillor Bass has consistently ignored local public opinion about this project. Therefore I suppose it was hardly unexpected that he said of my representation of local residents that he was not going to take any notice.

A 71 per cent increase in traffic for the people of Old Harlow is just not on. They have already been ignored over Gilden Way expansion and to ride roughshod over public opinion yet again will cause too much ill-feeling.

The other story on the front page of last week's Star about a road sign pointing the wrong way to the town centre epitomises the county highways department's attitude to Harlow.

The county council has resigned its obligations to well-paid contractors who know nothing about Harlow.

Cllr Mike Danvers
Tunnmeade, Harlow

we live in the fifth richest country in the world.

If the latter statement is correct, why is the Government allowing these young and vulnerable adults to be treated in such a contemptible manner?

Indeed, the Government has already attacked the disabled, ill, unemployed and working poor and now it fails to support the young. They are the future of this town but now at least 100 of them could be on the streets by October because of a vanity project that just might make their landlords more money.

It is now time for Mr Halfon to forget the politics and do something worthwhile in supporting these young and vulnerable adults. They need his help so stop making excuses for East Thames Housing and do it.

Gary Roberts
Carters Mead, Harlow

No quick fix for potholes

SIR, In reply to the letter from Sylvia Darvell about potholes (Star, May 12), I hope she has better luck in getting them fixed.

I have been trying for more than a year to get the potholes fixed in my area. You can only report one pothole in any road but we 17 in the approach to the area where I live.

I asked Robert Halfon for help as my local councillor did not reply to my email but he told me it was down to Essex County Council to fix them. He tried to help but it seems he also has given up as he did not reply to my last letter in January.

The county council contacted me to say the potholes will be repaired when they are deep enough. They don't go on quantity.

Alan Shadbolt
Tynley Croft, Harlow

Crack down on Code breakers

SIR, I wonder why the authorities do not take action on the number of illegally parked vehicles on our local roads.

I am referring to the numerous vehicles that are parked partially or wholly on pedestrian footpaths. These vehicles present a danger to pedestrians other road users, the disabled and people with prams and pushchairs.

Section 244 of The Highway Code states vehicles must not be parked partially or wholly on pavements unless signs permit it. I have yet to see such signs so why is nothing being done?

Name and address supplied

Act now to save services

SIR, The recent decision by the Government to re-enter talks with the BMA and the U-turn on forcing all schools to become academies demonstrates its concern that there is a lack of public support for both the undemocratic imposition of new contracts and of academisation.

We cannot afford to be complacent, however, as the Government is still firmly committed to a programme of austerity and to the privatisation of public services.

Following the very successful quiz night organised by the junior doctors support group and reported in the Star, we are in the process of planning a public meeting with local and national speakers to highlight the threat to our public services.

Not everybody works in the public sector but we all go to school, use the NHS and expect emergency services such as firefighters to respond when we need them. This fight is, therefore, in all our interests and we need to act now before these vital services are stolen from us.

Janet Szpakowski
Altham Grove, Harlow

Give us back our buses

SIR, I hope someone can enlighten me on what has happened to the bus route serving Foldcroft.

A while ago good bus shelters were installed but now they are obsolete because some bright spark decided our buses should use a circular route on the opposite side of the road.

The number five service has been replaced with a very haphazard number six which often does not turn up. I and many others relied on the number five service.

So please, whoever made these decisions think again. I and many others really need the original number five back on its normal route.

Constance Usher
Foldcroft, Harlow

Passengers poorly served

SIR, With reference to the letter from Lesley Templeman about bus services (Star, May 12), I quite agree there should be a service to all the retail parks as not everyone has their own car.

Also, why have buses stopped going into Sainsbury's? My 90-year-old mother has always shopped there but now, unless she can afford a taxi, it is not possible.

I had to take her to St Margaret's Hospital in Epping yesterday and was also told that the Harlow buses do not drive into the hospital any more.

Why have all these services stopped? They were used regularly by the all ages and not just the elderly.

Bernard celebrates 60 years of flower power

THE longest-serving trader in the town centre is celebrating 60 years of bringing a splash of colour and floral scents to the homes of Harlow.

Florist Bernard Chapman started trading from a stall in the town market in 1956 after taking over his father's horticulture business.

He now runs several shops and last year moved to new premises in Broad Walk after relocating from East Gate.

BLOOMIN' GREAT: Florist Bernard Chapman is celebrating 60 years of trading in Harlow town centre

The 81-year-old, who still lives in Harlow, said: "I am proud of a long career but I never expected to get to this mark."

"People seem so glad that I am still here as the number of shops in Harlow is going down and down."

Charge

Following the death of his father, Mr Chapman and his brother Arthur were left in charge of one of the UK's largest horticulture businesses with shops in five counties.

Sadly, Arthur died in an accident and from then on Mr Chapman decided to concentrate on flowers.

He still has shops in Braintree and Bishop's Stortford as well as the Harlow branch where he spends the majority of his time.

Mr Chapman has four children. His daughter Tracy works in the Harlow shop while the two other branches are managed by his son, Geoff.

However, he has no intention of putting his feet up just yet.

"I feel well enough to continue," he said. "We had an extremely big business, one of the biggest in Britain and now I'm just playing with one shop. It is like playing with toys."

Wind smashed kitesurfer into coastal seawall

Father-of-one suffered multiple injuries

Court Reporter

star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

AN experienced kitesurfer died when he was slammed into a sea-wall by a freak gust of wind, an inquest heard.

Father-of-one Mark Paxton, who worked as a grounds manager at Canons Brook Golf Course in Harlow, was preparing to ride his board off the Essex coast near St Osyth when the horror unfolded.

The 42-year-old suffered traumatic injuries in the accident on February 21. Despite the efforts of paramedics to save his life, he was declared dead at the scene.

Chelmsford Coroner's Court heard on Thursday how Mr Paxton had swapped to a smaller safer kite due to high winds at the surfing spot and was standing on the beach in the moments before the tragedy.

As he prepared to return to the water he asked fellow surfer Joanna Kalpinas to help him launch. However, when she released the kite after he gave her the thumbs up, the wind suddenly dropped and it tumbled towards the ground.

A 45mph gust then smashed him into the concrete seawall.

Ms Kalpinas told the inquest: "The main thing I remember is it just fell out of the sky and the kite ended up by the wall. Then the wind picked up and the kite went back into the air and that was when he was dragged along the beach."

"He was dragged into the sea-wall and he hit it with his right shoulder. I pulled the emergency release on the kite and Mark seemed to be pain.

"Then a cyclist came by and some other people came over. Another gentleman came over a few minutes later who had first aid training and he took over. Mark didn't say anything."

Mr Paxton was conscious and breathing when beachgoers first arrived at the scene but his condition deteriorated and he went into cardiac arrest.

The inquest was told he died from multiple injuries. The paramedics who attended the scene were not called to give evidence.

At the start of the hearing coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray read a note from Mr Paxton's widow, Andrea, in which she said that on the day of his death he was completely normal and happy.

"He was looking forward to kitesurfing and was extremely experienced," she said.

Addressing his family and friends, Mrs Beasley-Murray said: "Mark Paxton died as a result of an accident; it was the most of tragic of accidents."

Expressing her sympathies to his family and friends, she said: "You have had the ordeal of sitting here through the evidence and you have done that with great dignity."

"I hope you will be able to dwell on the happy memories."

In the immediate aftermath of the tragedy, Mr Paxton's friend Tony McSpadden wrote online: "Those of you who knew Mark will remember him for his love of blasting away the hours on his race board or, more recently, his hydrofoil."

"Those who knew his passion for tweaking his kit to make it faster and faster, his ability to put more than 50 miles away in a session, will know he loved what he did."

"This has hit all of his friends and especially his family, very hard."

Mr Paxton joined Canons Brook as assistant green keeper and within two years was promoted to deputy course manager before taking the top job in 2010.

A club spokeswoman said: "Apart from being exceptionally talented, he was a nice guy and always had time to stop and talk to members and guests at the golf club."

"We were all stunned at the tragic news of Mark's death."

£15m scheme for busy A414 junction

PRELIMINARY work on a £15m scheme to ease traffic congestion at a busy Harlow junction will start later this year.

As part of the improvements earmarked for the junction of Edinburgh Way and the A414, Edinburgh Way will be duelled between the Cambridge Road and River Way roundabouts.

Other improvements included in the scheme are: ■ the upgrading of the Cambridge Road roundabout to include a dedicated left turn lane from the south to the west along the A414

■ improvements to traffic signals at the East Road junction with Edinburgh Way, with crossing points on the A414 for pedestrians and cyclists, and

■ improvements and improvements to River Way roundabout.

Cllr Rodney Bass, Essex County Council's cabinet member for infrastructure, said: "We are investing a lot of money in improving roads in Harlow, working side by side with Harlow Enterprise Zone, to transform the town's economy."

Construction work is due to begin early next year. Information, including maps, will be on display at the Harlow Enterprise Hub, in Edinburgh Way, on Tuesday (May 24) from 3-8pm and council officers will be in attendance to answer questions.

Information is also available on the county council website at www.essex.gov.uk/majorschemes.

In brief

Dates announced for new M11 junction consultations

HARLOW: The dates of four public exhibitions on proposals to build a new M11 junction have been announced by Essex County Council.

Last week County Hall unveiled its plans for junction 7a which will see Gilden Way widened and a new roundabout built.

Cllr Rodney Bass, cabinet member for infrastructure, said public discussion was important to shape the proposals before planning permission is sought before the end of the year.

The consultations will take place at St John's Art and Recreation Centre in Old Harlow on Friday, June 3 from 2-8pm, at Sheering Village Hall on Wednesday June 8 from 2-8pm, at Harlow Central Library on Thursday, June 16 from 1-6pm and at the Church of the Assumption in Old Harlow on Friday, June 17 from 2-8pm.

Messy play workshops

HARLOW: New messy play workshops for children under the age of five have been introduced at the Leisurezone in Second Avenue.

The sessions will be held in the Time Machine gallery every Monday morning from 10.30-11.30am and cost £3 each or £10 for one month.

They will include activity sessions, song and story time and a ballpit. For more information call (01279) 413412 or visit www.science-alive.co.uk.

Rocking in Town Park

HARLOW: Harlow Rock School will be hosting an afternoon of music in the Town Park on bank holiday Monday (May 30).

Rock The Park is a free family event which will include music on the newly refurbished bandstand as well as various charity stalls and other activities. There will also be a licensed bar and food stalls.

Funding for the event, which gets under way at midday, has been provided by the Jack Petchey Foundation.

Spin event to raise cash

HARLOW: A charity spin class will be held at LifeCycle Fitness at the Lattou Bush Centre on Sunday.

Some 14 people will be taking part and raising money for the Princess Alexandra Hospital Charity.

The group will pay £10 for the event as well as collecting sponsorship. The money raised will add to the total collected by Harlow resident Sam Snelling as part of a skydive next month.

LifeCycle Fitness are not charging for the use of the bikes and support has come from Wilkinson's, Dawn's Cake Couture and Balloon Bouquets in Old Harlow who will decorate the studio.

CHARITY: 1,500 women converge on Harlow Town Park to take Emotional scenes as pink army run the Race for Life

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THERE were tears and laughter as hundreds of women wearing pink took up the challenge of the Race for Life at Harlow Town Park.

More than 1,500 lined up for the start of Sunday's race, choosing to run either the 5km and 10km course to raise funds for Cancer Research UK.

Organisers hope they will hit their target of £75,000 once all the money is sent in. Over the past five years the total raised in Harlow stands at £721,548.

Event organiser Courtney Culverhouse said: "We are so grateful to everyone who took part and their supporters, as well as our heroic volunteers. It was a fantastic day, full of emotion, courage, tears and laughter as all these women joined forces to conquer cancer."

One of those who took part was 37-year-old Katy Barrow, of Saffron Crescent in Sawbridgeworth, who also led the pre-race warm-up session with members of her company SOSA Dance Fitness.

Enjoyed

"It was a great day, the whole event was really good and we really enjoyed it," she said. "I was part of a team of five from the group and we will be doing the warm-up for the Race for Life in Epping too."

She added: "There was a really good atmosphere. Some were running, some walking and whole families taking part. People were cheering the whole way around."

"We walked for some of the course, and at times we stopped to do a bit of dancing. It was a really enjoyable time for a good cause."

Now the event is over, those taking part are being reminded to send in their sponsorship money.

"I'm asking everyone who took part – and all the friends, family and colleagues who pledged to sponsor them – to transform their passion into progress by returning the money they've raised as soon as possible," said Ms Culverhouse.

ALL SMILES: Runners of all ages took part in either the 5km or 10km course

"Many people don't realise their entry fee only covers the cost of the event. It's the sponsorship money that really makes a difference. So, whatever the amount, we're asking everyone to make every effort to return their sponsorship money as soon as possible."

Sponsorship money can be paid in online, by phone, by cheque or in person at any Cancer Research UK shop.

FRONT PAGE STORY: Traffic officers sacked for gross misconduct after disciplinary hearing

Police pair lied in statements on A12 fatality

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO traffic police officers have been sacked from the Essex force for gross misconduct in their handling of a case involving a Harlow man who was killed in a road accident.

An independently chaired misconduct panel was told the two officers – PC Joanne Jeggo and PC John Simpson – were on duty on October 30, 2014, when they received a report of a pedestrian walking on the A12 near Chelmsford.

They went to the area and carried out a search but did not find the man. Later, pedestrian Kyle Brooks, 28, of Broadfield, Harlow, was struck by a number of vehicles and killed while walking in the carriageway of the busy road.

The four-day misconduct hearing, held at Harlow Social Security and Child Support Tribunal, was told how the two officers provided written and verbal statements stating they had sought more information about the location to assist with their search but these were found to be false.

The panel, headed by legally qualified chairman Neil Dalton, found the officers' conduct in relation to the search for Mr Brooks amounted to misconduct.

Their response to the allegations, which included statements that were not true, amounted to gross misconduct.

After the hearing Mark Gilman, director of support services at both Essex and Kent Police, said: "These officers responded to a call and carried out a search but failed to find a man reported to be walking on one of the main roads in the county."

"The panel heard strong evidence of the officers' previous exemplary records and the panel were left in no doubt that they were highly regarded by their line managers and peers."

"They have been dismissed because they were found to have lied. They were shown not to have followed the fundamental values expected of officers to maintain public confidence in policing."

"In order to maintain the highest standards, the panel believed dismissal without notice was the most appropriate sanction."

Mary Cunneen of the Independent Police Complaints Commission described the death of Mr Brooks as a tragedy.

"We conducted a thorough, independent investigation into the handling of three separate emergency calls from members of the public to Essex Police prior to Mr Brooks' death," she said.

"Our investigation found evidence to suggest PC Jeggo and PC Simpson had lied in written statements they made in relation to why they had not searched a stretch of the A12 that night."

"The cases against these officers have now been found proven at misconduct hearings conducted by Essex Police and both officers have been dismissed from the force."

'Our lives are emptier without him'

AN inquest was told Kyle Brooks suffered fatal injuries after being hit by a lorry and up to three other vehicles while he was walking in the second lane of the A12 in the early hours of the morning.

The previous evening Mr Brooks had been out drinking with friends who said the last time they saw him was when he left to smoke a cigarette. He failed to meet them at a taxi rank at 2.30am.

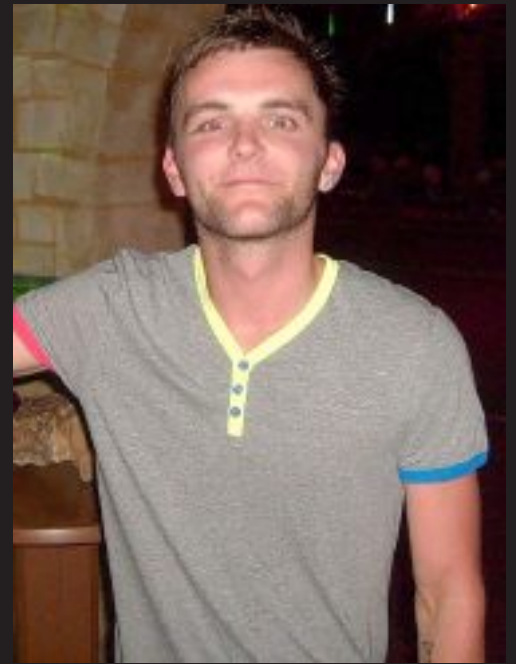

The hearing was told Mr Brooks was struck by an articulated lorry at around 3.45am. The force of the impact threw him into the third lane, where he was struck by a Mercedes car and possibly two other vehicles.

The coroner recorded a verdict of accidental death.

Before the accident Essex Police received three emergency calls indicating three different locations for a pedestrian walking on the carriageway.

The police response was subsequently investigated by the Independent Police Complaints Commission.

Mr Brooks was born and raised in Harlow and attended Kingsmoor Primary School before moving on to Stewards Secondary School. After spells working at Stansted Airport and Sports Direct, he secured a job at ink manufacturer Luminescence in Bush Fair.

In a statement released after his death his family said: "Although his life has been cut tragically short he touched the lives of many people."

"Losing Kyle so cruelly is something we will never come to terms with. "Our lives are emptier without him; we are heartbroken and struggling daily with the knowledge he is not coming home."

Parks run is Jon's way of saying thanks

A GRATEFUL husband is preparing to run his third half-marathon to raise money for the breast cancer unit where his wife was treated.

Mum-of-two Lisa French, 33, underwent surgery and received treatment at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital in Epping following her diagnosis last summer.

Now her car mechanic husband Jon is planning to run the Royal Parks Foundation Half Marathon later this year as his way of thanking the unit for the support it gave his family and raising awareness of its work.

"The treatment was superb but the extra support we got thanks to the charity really did help Lisa, me and our family deal with it," said Jon, 33, of Sibneys Green, Harlow.

He said their daughters – Lucille, 7, and Bethany, 6, who attend Latton Green Primary School – had coped well during what was a stressful time for them all.

"I just wanted to give something back and raise awareness of the great work they're doing locally for women with breast cancer," he said.

Jon and his neighbour Rob Eathly have already run half marathons at Roding Valley and Brentwood this year.

Lisa said the personal care she received from breast specialist Ashraf Patel had helped her cope with her treatment and recovery, adding: "It's great that Jon and Rob are raising money to help him continue his amazing work."

Before running in the Royal Parks event Jon and Rob will be taking on the Three Peaks Challenge to climb the three highest mountains in England, Scotland and Wales.

■ The unit is looking for more runners to join Jon and Rob in the 13.1-mile run through four of London's Royal Parks – Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens, St James's Park and The Green Park – on Sunday, October 9. Anyone wanting to be part of the unit's team must pay a £50 deposit to secure a place and sponsorship or a suggested donation of at least £300.

For more information call the clinical trials office on (01279) 827857, email pabhbreasttrials@outlook.com or visit The Princess Alexandra Hospital Charitable Trust – Breast Unit on Facebook.

Could airfield be the site for new hospital?

Idea receives support from parish council

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A SUGGESTION that North Weald Airfield could be used for a new district hospital to replace Princess Alexandra Hospital is flying high with parish councillors.

The NHS trust which runs the Harlow hospital is planning for predicted population growth by exploring options for the development of the existing Hamstel Road site as well as potential alternative sites in the Harlow area.

Now North Weald Bassett Parish Council is calling on Epping Forest Council to work with Harlow Council and look at developing an area of the village airfield as a suitable location.

The suggestion was put forward by parish councillor Nigel Bedford who said the airfield was in an ideal position with good road links to Whipp's Cross Hospital in Leytonstone and Addenbrookes at Cambridge via the M11 and to Broomfield Hospital in Chelmsford via the A414.

With the Herts and Essex air ambulance already based at the airfield, he added there was a possibility that ambulance stations in Epping and Ongar could be relocated to create a "mixed use emergency service base".

All existing sites, including the

TAKE OFF: North Weald Airfield has been suggested as an alternative location for a new district hospital to replace PAH (above). Left, Cllr Nigel Bedford current PAH site in Harlow, could then be developed for housing.

Cllr Bedford told last week's parish council meeting: "This would be a good opportunity to make good use of the airfield. I can see this as a way of supporting flying at the airfield; we would be securing the airfield."

"We could lease the land on a 100-year lease, generating revenue income and that income could sustain flying by maintaining the runway."

He said using the airfield as the site for a new hospital would benefit local people with shorter travelling times than to potential new hospital sites north of Harlow.

A spokeswoman for the PAH NHS Trust said: "The trust is currently working with its strategic partners, including local authorities and commissioning groups, to plan for the future population growth predicted in the area and ensure that there are sustainable high quality services in the long term.

"As part of that work the trust is exploring all options including development of the existing hospital site and potential alternative sites in the Harlow area"

A spokesman for Epping Forest Council said: "We are aware that future expansion of the PAH site is limited and the health authority is exploring possible options for another site."

"We are working with neighbouring councils as part of the Local Plan process to include strategic factors such as health provision, but we have not been given any indication that North Weald is being considered as a likely option."

"Considering the catchment area for Princess Alexandra, we understand they are looking further north."

County's verge-cutting plea to drivers

DRIVERS are being asked to take extra care on the roads as Essex County Council begins its summer programme of cutting grass verges.

The programme includes verges next to roads and pavements as well as vegetation on central reservations and anywhere growth affects sightlines at junctions

Up to eight tractors will be working on the road network at any one time during the peak cutting season and motorists are urged to keep a safe distance in case of flying debris such as tree branches.

Around 6,100 miles of verge will be cut during the summer. Engineers will also begin spraying weeds in urban areas to limit the damage they can cause by growing through the surfaces.

Drivers stopped for seatbelt and phone offences

A LONG-running road safety campaign continued in Harlow when police officers spent a day targeting drivers committing motoring offences.

Officers from the county's Casualty Reduction Unit were joined by a group of students from the Essex Police College for the Surround A Town operation last Wednesday.

Automatic number plate recognition technology was used to identify suspect vehicles which were then taken to stop-check sites at junction 7 of the M11, Southern Way and First Avenue.

During the operation 63 people were dealt with for not wearing a seatbelt and 37 drivers were stopped for using a mobile phone behind the wheel.

Suspicion

One man was arrested on suspicion of drink driving and driving without insurance while another was dealt with for careless driving.

Two vehicles were found not to have valid MOTs, one was found to have a defective tyre and three were found to be over the legal weight limit.

Sergeant Dave Rudd of the Casualty Reduction Unit said: "Drink driving risks and ruins lives. Driving while under the influence of alcohol puts your safety as well as the safety of innocent road users at risk."

"Essex Police takes a zero tolerance approach to people who drive under the influence. However, we need the public to do their bit and speak up about people who regularly choose to get behind the wheel drunk or high on drugs."

"You can call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 with information which will be fed to my team and I can reassure residents that it will be acted upon."

Bobbies on beat as officers join dance craze

Police put through their paces in 90-second video

Richard Brown

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

POLICE officers in Essex swapped their tasers for twerking when they took part in dance craze sweeping forces across the world.

The group of 11 officers filmed the 90-second running man video, which was choreographed by PC Alan Conran, on their days off, after being challenged by colleagues at the Metropolitan force.

The dance craze was started by the New Zealand police force as recruitment drive and was swiftly followed up by officers in New York and across the UK.

PC Conran said: "We saw the New Zealand video and we just thought we would give it a go."

After a few takes, and a couple of clips for the blooper reel, the 11 officers eventually settled on their moves, editing the video to a soundtrack of Fifth Harmony's Worth It and My Boo by Ghost Town DJs.

WATCH THE VIDEO

You can watch the video by visiting our website at: harlowstar.co.uk

"It was good fun and I hope it's viewed with the humour that was intended," said PC Conran. "We had a laugh and we want the public to have the same reaction when they see the video.

"A lot of people, both members of the public and cops from other forces have been badgering us to get involved so we felt like we had to step up and perform."

He added: "It's a way for us to show the public that we're human and we like to have a bit of fun when we're off-duty. People have responded well to what we've been doing on social media, showing we have a human side."

"We don't want people to take us too seriously; we have a job to do, like everyone else, but we have fun when we can."

Ambulance staff to hold a strike ballot over working hours

UNION members working for the East of England Ambulance Service are to be balloted over possible strike action in a row over excessive working hours and lack of sufficient breaks.

UNISON accused service managers of failing to tackle the problem and said it will consult with frontline ambulance staff over industrial action.

It claims that in December last year 2,995 shifts finished more than an hour later than planned and in January 2016 the figure rose to 3,639 shifts.

A spokesman said: "Shifts are meant to be no longer than 12 hours in length but regularly over run so that staff can find themselves working 13-18 hour days or nights. Earlier this year one crew was forced to work a 20.5-hour shift."

The union also said frontline staff were entitled to a 45-minute meal break during their shift but regularly only end up with 30 minutes.

Unacceptable

UNISON branch secretary Frazer Stevenson said: "After a year of broken promises our crews are still faced with unacceptable working conditions."

"Frontline staff are caring people, committed to providing excellent patient care but they're human beings too and they need to be cared for by their employer. Fifteen hour shifts with just a half-hour unpaid break are now commonplace."

"There's already a stressful job, being made almost unbearable by the excessive working hours staff regularly find themselves working. No wonder so many have already left the service and that many more say they want to quit."

The union, which carried out an indicative ballot earlier this year, said it will now proceed with a full ballot of frontline staff.

The East of England Ambulance Service covers Essex, Hertfordshire, Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridgeshire and Bedfordshire.

CHANGE OF LOCATION : Harlow Foodbank has moved to new premises

All change for foodbank as search for bigger premises ends in success

HARLOW Foodbank has finally found a new home after moving to bigger premises at Matching Tye. The charity, which previously operated out of Harlow Lok nStore facility in Edinburgh Way, has moved to Housham Hall Farm after outgrowing its previous base. Thousands of people in need have benefited from the services provided by the foodbank which is run by the Michael Roberts Charitable Trust.

After a lengthy search for new premises including an online campaign which raised £20,000, the charity was able to secure the bigger unit.

A spokesman said: "This new warehouse will enable us to concentrate all of our food donations operations on one site over the coming months. This in turn will assist stock control and distribution."

Music venue to reopen after five-month closure

The Square will move back to its former site in Fourth Avenue

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S iconic music venue The Square will reopen at its former site in Fourth Avenue later this month - just five months after closing.

The announcement was made on Friday by SquareOne Entertainment, the not-for-profit organisation that manages the venue.

About a year ago the venue was issued with a six-month notice to vacate the premises by landlord Circle Housing, although a last-minute reprieve for an additional six months was granted due to a number of logistical reasons. The Square remained open until December 31 last year.

Since then, SquareOne has been seeking a new location for The Square - a search that is still ongoing - but will now reopen the venue in its traditional location while developers decide what will happen to the site after a planning application for housing was rejected by Harlow Council.

A statement issued on behalf of SquareOne reads: "It was SquareOne's intention to be able to secure a new premises for the venue where a long term future could be built, and not to drag out what had been a physically and emotionally straining process."

The statement reiterated plans to secure a new venue elsewhere in the town but said the process of doing so is "taking longer than expected".

"SquareOne are aware of the hole that has been left in the community following the closure of The Square."

"With Harlow Council's Development Management Committee deeming Circle's plans for redevelopment of the site unsatisfactory, the building having been sat unused for five months, the constant demand from the public for The Square to exist and the need for SquareOne to trade to pay existing bills and avoid personal debt, the right move is to reopen."

"This is by no means a long term solution to the ongoing issue, and The Square is far from safe. Circle Housing is appealing the decision and this process could see Circle's plans approved. The importance of The Square to Harlow has been reflected by the enormous number of people who have taken time to sign petitions, write letters to the council, attend meetings, contact us directly asking what is going on, volunteer to help keep a venue running and the constant stream of social media posts explaining the disappointment at lack of such a venue.

"There's a bit of work to do to get the place back into a fit state for opening, but we're working around the clock and have a team of volunteers getting their hands dirty."

"We now hope you'll join us this summer as we celebrate our eighth year of running an independent music venue. The story is far from over, so let's get writing this next chapter."

Last year a petition was launched to keep The Square open, along with a video paying tribute to the venue, featuring a raft of high-profile acts.

Man strikes gold in hunt for treasure

A TREASURE hunter who has spent years searching the seabed off a UK beach for signs of sunken riches has struck gold.

Every summer Vincent Thurkettle looked for evidence of a huge haul of gold carried on a ship which sank in a hurricane more than 150 years ago.

His efforts were finally rewarded when he found a nugget of gold about the size of a small egg while he was shallow diving a few metres off the coast of Anglesey in Wales.

"I was absolutely stunned when I first saw the nugget," said 60-year-old Mr Thurkettle. "The sun was out so the gold was gleaming and because it was under water it was magnified so it looked huge.

"I was really only expecting to find gold dust so I couldn't believe it when I realised it was a huge nugget. It was a magical moment."

He added: "I didn't want to touch it at first. It was stuck in a crevice as if it lay where nature had hidden it. When I picked it up it was surprisingly heavy."

Mr Thurkettle found the nugget - which is thought to be worth about £50,000 - four years ago but kept quiet about his discovery until last week. Because it was found close to a shipwreck he was not allowed to keep it as it is the property of the Crown.

It is being kept in a safe place until it eventually goes on display in a museum. However, the good news for Mr

Thurkettle is that he will receive a finder's fee.

"It has broken my heart to part with the nugget but I think it's important that it ends up in a museum for everyone to see," he said.

Poster girls ready for sixth Midnight Walk

Pair taking part again in memory of best friends

JOIN US: Joanne McEwan, left, and Lindsey Peters

starhertssexnews.co.uk

TWO veterans of St Clare Hospice's Midnight Walk have more reason than most to make sure as many people sign up.

For Lindsey Peters and Joanne McEwan, who are preparing to take part in their sixth walk, have been chosen as the poster girls to appear on the promotional material for this year's event.

"We started taking part in the Midnight Walk in 2010, the summer after two of our best friends, Linda Clayden and Alexis Hughes-Hughes, sadly passed away," said Joanne, 54.

"I met Linda and Alexis at an ante-natal group years ago and we became lifelong friends. It was such a shock when we lost both Linda and Alexis within just four months of each other. Linda received amazing care at St Clare Hospice so we wanted to give something back to the charity."

Lindsey, 60, added: "When the posters with the photo of Jo and I went up all around the local area our phones wouldn't stop buzzing! All our friends were phoning to say they had seen us on the poster. We thought that as we are the poster girls for 2016 we better get a bigger team together than ever before."

Daughters

Joanne said: "When we did our first Midnight Walk in 2010 we gathered a big group of us and walked with all our daughters, including Linda and Alexis' daughters."

"It was such a wonderful and moving atmosphere, walking in memory of our loved ones and sharing the experience with so many others whose lives have been touched by St Clare."

Lindsey and Joanne, who both live in Elsenham, will be walking with other members of Elsenham Women's Institute as part of the the Gilbey Girls team.

"We are taking the costumes very seriously this year," said Lindsey. "We are taking it back to the 1970s with our neon leggings and, obviously, tutus will be compulsory."

Brew up and bake to raise hospice funds

IF you enjoy a cup of tea or coffee with a piece of cake, you are being encouraged to indulge your passion and raise money for St Clare Hospice at the same time.

The hospice is calling on supporters to host coffee mornings and afternoon tea parties for its newly launched 'Big Brew' campaign.

Community fundraiser Dani Dea'th said: "Sharing a cup of tea and cake with friends is something we all like to do. It brings friends, neighbours and communities together for some quality time and what better way to make those cake calories count than by turning your usual meet-ups into a Big Brew for St Clare."

She added: "The beauty of the Big Brew is that your event can be as simple or as elaborate as you wish. Whether you raise £20 or £200, every penny counts."

One idea is for supporter groups to host a Big Brew as part of the Queen's 90th birthday celebrations.

■ To download a Big Brew resource pack containing fundraising ideas, a poster template, a Clare Bear colouring sheet for children and cake recipe cards, visit www.stclarehospice.org.uk/get-involved/community-fundraising/big-brew.

Sign up online or give them a call

This year's neon-themed Midnight Walk takes place around the streets of Harlow on Saturday, July 2. Walkers can choose from one of two routes, either 5km or 10km, with both starting from The Water Gardens at 11pm.

However, the evening begins at 9.30pm with registration and a warm up by PureGym and Clubbercise.

Tickets to take part cost £20 for adults (16 years and above) and £10 for children (11-15).

You can register online at stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016/ or by contacting challenge and events fundraiser Jade Clarke on (01279) 773756 or by email to jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk.

More cameras to catch crooks

Harlow one of 13 locations chosen by police

Ken Morley

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW is one of several locations across Essex where police will be installing new roadside cameras to target criminals using the county's highways.

There are currently 61 fixed cameras across the county but that number is due to increase to 95 over the next 12 months.

During the past year evidence from ANPR cameras has been used in 206 court cases to secure convictions in cases of murder, assault, theft, burglary, vehicle crime, robbery, fraud, the supply of controlled drugs, kidnap, conspiracy to facilitate illegal entry of foreign nationals into the UK, serious domestic violence crimes, assault and murder.

As well as Harlow, new sites are being considered in Basildon, Braintree, Brentwood, Colchester, Harwich, Rayleigh, Saffron Walden, Southend, Thurrock, Wickford, Woodham Ferrers and the Tendring area.

Martin Lyddon, ANPR manager at Essex Police, said: "ANPR makes a positive contribution to policing objectives each and every day, supporting a range of activities from volume crime enquiries to major incidents."

Arrests

"Between 2015 and 2016 a total of 607 arrests were made using fixed site and portable ANPR. It has also been used by the Casualty Reduction Unit to enhance road safety and has been pivotal in the seizure of 502 vehicles for no insurance in Essex over the last six months."

In October last year four men were convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment for their involvement in the widespread theft and disposal of vehicles stolen from across Essex.

Fixed site cameras helped trace the movement of the stolen vehicles and those being used to commit the crimes.

Mr Lyddon added: "We want to be very transparent around our use of ANPR across Essex, which is why we are publicising our plans."

"We know that it can be considered by some to be controversial, but it has proven itself as a crucial tool in both detecting and deterring crime."

"We have extremely stringent processes in place to manage the data that these cameras collect and innocent members of the public have nothing to be concerned about."

"Our plans to increase our coverage across Essex is all part of our on-going commitment to keeping the county safe and making it as difficult as possible for criminals to operate in our county."

New tastes went down a treat . . . except the olives

YOUNGSTERS at a Harlow primary school learnt where food comes when they visited one of the town's supermarkets.

Year 2 pupils from Pemberley Academy, in Hodings Road, were taken on a tour around the Tesco store in Edinburgh Way. Children in Texas class were shown around by employee Danielle Harrington as part of the retail giant's From Farm to Fork education programme.

Taste

The six and seven year-olds got the chance to taste different breads, fruits and vegetables and were shown how the shop handles and stocks its goods.

They were also taken to the fish counter where they saw the variety of seafood for sale, found out how it was caught and why it had to be kept on ice.

Headteacher Neil Coster said: "The pupils had a fabulous time taking part in this activity."

"They learned a huge amount about the food they eat every day and had the opportunity to experience other foods that they had never tried, although they weren't too sure about olives."

CELEBRATION: Bishop Alan with students at St Mark's in Harlow

Bishop helps school mark a golden time

It's a mass celebration as St Mark's turns 50

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE Bishop of Brentwood led a golden day of celebrations to mark a Harlow secondary school's 50th anniversary.

The Right Reverend Alan Williams celebrated mass at St Mark's West Essex Catholic School, in Tripton Road, which opened in September 1965. Headteacher Elaine Heaphy said: "This is a significant year for St Mark's and we were delighted and thankful Bishop Alan was able to celebrate the mass with us for our 50th anniversary. His visit to the school made it an extra-special occasion."

The bishop hosted the mass for students in Years 7 and 8 before meeting students, staff, parents and governors.

His visit was one of the highlights in a year of celebrations which will be taking place to mark the milestone.

When the school first opened it had 100 pupils and six staff based at Holy Cross Primary School as building work was not completed on time.

It was not until January 1966 that the Tripton Road site became fully operational under the headship of Anthony O'Shea.

Passionate

A school spokeswoman added: "Mr O'Shea was passionate about comprehensive education."

"His vision was to provide an excellent education for young people of all abilities in an environment where their personal faith could be supported and nurtured."

"Fifty years and three heads later, St Mark's has 1,000 pupils on the roll and this original vision for the school is shared by the staff and governors of today."

Former pupils and staff of St Mark's are invited to a reunion event which is taking place on Friday, July 1.

■ For more details visit the school's website at st-marks.essex.sch.uk.

A Bedazzling performance from these youngsters

MEMBERS of an after-school theatre club for young people with additional needs have been celebrating exam success.

Bedazzle Performing Arts, which is based at Harlow College, runs a children's group and post-16 class using a syllabus accredited by the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art.

This month four members of the older group – Becky Webb, Viv Farrar, Jason Glynn and Sonia Barrett – passed LAMDA exams with distinction, earning an accreditation through exam body AQA for good measure.

In addition, five members of the younger group have all graduated from the Arts Awards Discover programme run by Trinity College in London.

SUCCESS: Becky Webb, Viv Farrar, Jason Glynn and, front, Sonia Barrett

Bedazzle founder Diane Janssen said: "We deliver educational programmes for various regional colleges with exam success at all levels. We have also created Project-B, a confidence-building, self-esteem and social skills programme aimed at those looking to go into further education and employment."

Bedazzle course leader Red Saunders added: "The group has developed greater confidence, self-expression and communication skills since starting in April last year. Getting their Arts Award Discover is a brilliant achievement."

WOMEN'S HOUR

Harlow Playhouse (Studio theatre)

Thursday, May 26 (8pm). Pay what you can

Satire, song and mess are the tools of interrogation in this show which looks at the media portrayal of women in society. Set in an alternative Women's Hour universe, invented segments and actual text from the Radio 4 show combine to create a cabaret show of giddy, freewheeling silliness. What happens when women are given just one hour a day to think about what it is to be a woman? Note: age 18+, includes graphic images.

THE STONES

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford

Friday, May 27 (8pm) £19.50

Tribute to the great rock 'n' roll band in the world with a front man who looks, sounds and moves like Mick Jagger and a young Keith Richards who lives in the 1970s.

THE BILLY FURY STORY

Harlow Playhouse

Saturday, May 28 (7.30pm) £20.50-£22.50

Pop legend Billy Fury & his Fury's Tornados play together for the first time in 40 years thanks to new technology and amazing new film footage. Billy, who died in 1983, can be singing and performing on giant screen while the original Fury's Tornados play live below.

Kevin wants to give musical kids a chance

A MUSIC teacher with a difference, Kevin Barr is developing tomorrow's talent by giving youngsters the chance to perform alongside today's stars of the jazz world.

"One day they could be the next big star in an arena," said Kevin. "I am starting the process by giving them the opportunity to perform on stage."

The 57-year-old from King's Lynn who lives and works in Harlow, plays a unique role in organising classy events at Park Inn Hotel and encouraging his students to join a big name on the bill.

Jazz professionals Rod Pooley and Mark Bettis will both perform later in the year in Kevin's Music Showcase and Dancing with Nostalgia shows.

But Kevin's immediate focus is on Let Your Talent Shine, where young musicians on his roster will show off their skills on Sunday, June 26. Ten six- to 14-year-olds will take to the stage.

"They are all working hard and getting ready," he smiled.

"They choose which songs they want to play. They do it all themselves. Students will be competing too."

"It is a stepping stone. If they think it's for them, I will sit down with them and talk about what that entails."

What's next is potentially a performance alongside Rod, which

Kevin explains offers a perfect incentive to practice:

"Students will warm up with him and they get time to spend with him before it starts. They are free to come up and play something with him."

"Rod can do things in a concert that we can only dream about and Mark keeps more to the dance music side of things."

A steady audience of around 80 people regularly attend the shows, which often contain more than just music. The Dancing with Nostalgia invites audiences to take to the floor and also provides a dinner.

Kevin has developed his shows from smaller scale events in Harlow schools and has aspirations to create a set-piece to match his love for music.

"I take inspiration from the NAMN Shows," he said to reference the colossal concerts held in Nashville.

"If we can really get it going more people can become aware of the music and it will give the students a better experience."

"The problem is that there is nowhere to go to see this kind of music played locally. That's why we do the events. Students are playing to learn from the experience."

Unusually for a music teacher, Kevin is fascinated beyond a tune being played correctly and also respects the qualities of showmanship. He hopes this rubs off on his students.

"They have to be entertaining," he said. "They don't just play to play a piece, it has to be entertaining. They have to learn to present themselves on stage."

"There is enthusiasm and I want them to get the most from what they are doing. This is the first little step and I have had students in the past who have made that step up."

He continued: "That's the thing that Simon Cowell is looking for. That 'X factor'. You can't explain why somebody has got it or not."

"I have got some that are showing signs of that charisma. I am looking to bring that out of them."

Let Your Talent shine will be held on Sunday, June 26 at 3pm with tickets costing £8. Mark Bettis will play at Dancing with Nostalgia show on Sunday, September 18 from 1pm with tickets costing £19. Rod Pooley will perform on Sunday, November 20 at 3pm with tickets costing £12. All events will be held at The Park Inn Hotel in Southern Way, Harlow.

Shades of Suffolk in new exhibition

SUFFOLK'S finest charcoal artist Hilary Owers will bring her intuitively drawn lines, smudges and shapes to a Harlow gallery this month.

Making Marks is a showcase of her large scale monochrome drawings and other works that will be presented at Parndon Mill from today until Sunday, June 26.

Hilary has a studio in Colchester, but lives in Suffolk, and her designs have been exhibited widely in London.

She said of her work: "Drawing, for me, is an intuitive process, a very physical whole body activity that begins with no plan."

"In the studio I stand with the paper pinned against the wall. I begin with a mark, a line, a smudge, a gesture."

"As the marks add one to another, I constantly turn the paper disrupting progress, allowing the drawing to evolve organically as a response to the medium."

The gallery is open to the public from 10am to 5pm on Tuesdays to Fridays.

On Sundays and Bank Holiday Monday doors will be open from 2pm to 4pm.

Entry is free and for more information visit: www.parndonmill.co.uk.

JONATHAN Swift's classic satirical novel Gulliver's Travels will be re-imagined in a picturesque Harlow venue at the end of the month.

The family-friendly play will be performed at Harlow Museum and Walled Gardens on Sunday, May 29 from 1.30pm to 3.30pm.

Theatre company The Pantaloon are known for performing Shakespeare on the children's circuit and enjoy getting an audience well and truly involved.

With tickets costing £5 for adults and £3 for children organisers hope this will prove a popular afternoon out on the bank holiday weekend.

Part-comedy, part-fantasy, the plot sees Lamuel Gulliver take a voyage into the unknown, meeting the tiny residents of Lilliput and the giants of Brobdingnag.

He also sets sail to the floating island of Laputa and a country popularised by talking horses.

Show is live and loud!

COMBINING a rock concert, a trip to the opera and a catch-up in the pub, Middle Child Theatre is bringing its inventive night out to Harlow Playhouse.

Weekend Rockstars tells the story of Terry during the worst week of his life through song, dialogue and plenty of audience interaction.

"It does not pretend that there is a fourth wall there," said director Paul Smith. "It is gig theatre, - it's live and it's loud."

"It is story telling through music. It shows us how our rock music can help us through tough times. It is also there when we are celebrating."

Middle Child has produced original live songs to tell the story of Terry as he deals with girlfriend troubles and work pressures.

Backed by a versatile band Marc Graham as Terry fronts the band to perform rock, pop and rap music as his life unravels. The loud music is similar to what you might have found in The Square but there is more dialogue than singing.

Paul said this is not a performance to apply the word 'musical' to.

"We try to make it a little bit cooler than a musical," explained the 29-year-old.

"We have moved it away from jazz hands and instead of scenes, or musical numbers, we have tracks. It is an original album script told through the front man, who is living the worst week of his life.

"An inspiration is The Streets' album A Grand Don't Come For Free, where the character falls out with his mates, loses his girlfriend and loses £1,000 in a week. We also are inspired by The Arctic Monkey's debut album, Whatever People Say I Am, That's What I'm Not.

"There is dialogue in there too, and there is conversation within the songs. It is urban poetry. Most of the show is talking."

Middle Child Theatre will take to the stage on May 20 for one night only as part of Harlow Playhouse Pay What You Can season, where audiences are invited to leave a donation at the end.

Anyone interested should reserve a ticket fast, with nearly all seats having now been sold.

"I am really pleased so many tickets have been sold as I am from Harlow," said Paul.

"I am really excited to be taking the play to Harlow Playhouse. I was part of their theatre company for years. I left for Hull for university and then I moved to London. After that I set up my own company, Middle Child Theatre.

"There are 10 of us in total involved in the company. This show has five people on stage. Some are from Middle Child and some have never worked with us before."

"It is aimed at a millennial audience," added Paul.

"We have tried to make an event which will drag people away from Netflix. It is quite a tough battle.

"Millennials can stream films from all across the world. We are getting better at thinking of ways we can attract them and get through to them.

"It helps that this show is Pay What You Can as the audience don't have to spend £15 coming."

The rest of the performing band are Ed Cole as Terry's friend Aaron, Jessica Morley as his girlfriend Jenny and Alice Beaumont as mum.

Paul said it has been a tough ordeal to lug the equipment to the seven venues on their tour, but he has enjoyed the experience of offering something different.

"We started up in Birmingham and we finish in Luton shortly after the Harlow show. It is an intense two weeks and a lot of work.

"We have a real mix of venues. Some of the shows are in theatres and some nights, like in New Cross, they are in a pub. People feel they have to sit quietly in a theatre or wear certain clothes but we want people to relax and feel they can enjoy themselves."

"A few people take a bit longer to work out what it is," he added. "We are keen to cross art forms. It is a mix of things. We want to set up a new form. I have never seen (this style of play) done in this way before. I have seen people use it in other, interesting, ways.

"We rehearse in the same way as we would for a normal play. We also have a musical director. It is very much about getting music and theatre to work together. We want to create an environment where people can have a dance while talking."

■ Middle Child Theatre will perform Weekend Rockstars at Harlow Playhouse on May 20. For bookings and more information visit www.playhouseharlow.com or call (01279) 431945.

ART EXHIBITIONS

MAKING MARKS

The Gallery, Parndon Mill, Harlow
until Sunday, June 26 (open Tuesday-Friday 10am-5pm, Sunday 2-4pm)

An exhibition of large scale monochrome drawings and other works on paper by Hilary Owers, a working artist who lives in rural Suffolk and has had a studio in Colchester for the past 17 years. "Drawing, for me, is an intuitive process, a very physical whole body activity that begins with no plan," she says. Hilary trained as a fine art print maker at Central Saint Martin's College of Art and Design in London but in recent years has focused on drawing. She achieved MA Fine Art at the University of East London in 2001 and her work has been exhibited widely in London and the eastern region.

THE ART OF ILLUSTRATION

Gibberd Gallery, Civic Centre, Harlow
until Tuesday, May 31 (open Monday-Friday 9am-4.45pm, Sunday 2-4pm)

An exhibition of works by illustrator and artist Simon Pemberton. By showcasing works created for specific briefs and pieces more personal to the artist, this exhibition examines the processes and inspiration, beauty and detail of each and how they overlap. Simon's work has been commissioned by a wide variety of major design, publishing and advertising agencies and has worked on projects for companies including Penguin Books, Taylors Coffee and The Guardian.

Bittersweet musical

Sing Street

MUSICAL DRAMA: (12A) 106 mins

Director: John Carney
Starring: Ferdia Walsh-Peelo, Lucy Boynton, Jack Reynor, Aidan Gillen, Maria Doyle Kennedy, Kelly Thornton, Ben Carolan, Mark McKenna

If it ain't broke, don't fix it. That's the mantra of John Carney, writer-director of Oscar-winning romance Once and Begin Again, who remains in a bittersweet musical groove for this effortlessly charming coming-of-age story.

Set in 1985 Dublin, Sing Street revisits the decade of questionable fashion choices, when Frankie told us all to relax and Duran Duran frolicked on sun-kissed beaches with the girls of Rio.

Against this vibrant backdrop, Carney charts the rise of a pop group formed by boys' school misfits, who escape the economic hardships of the era through their infectious, self-penned music.

Life knocks the lads down, but they get back up again, inspiring classmates to rebel against the dictates of their school's disciplinarian headmaster, Brother Baxter (Don Wycherley).

Carney's script delicately touches upon themes of sexual abuse, domestic violence and adultery, counterbalancing the lead characters' exuberance with harsh life lessons that echo perfectly the words of the film's down-trodden heroine: "That's what love is: happy sad."

Laughter and tears come together in sweet harmony.

Robert (Aidan Gillen) and his wife Penny (Maria Doyle Kennedy) reluctantly tighten their purse strings, to the chagrin of their children Brendan (Jack Reynor), Ann (Kelly Thornton) and Conor (Ferdia Walsh-Peelo).

Fifteen-year-old Conor transfers to a boys' school, where he falls foul of resident bully Barry (Ian Kenny), but makes one friend in red-haired outcast Darren (Ben Carolan).

Desperate to catch the eye of a local girl called Raphina (Lucy Boynton), Conor forms a band called Sing Street and ropes in some of the local kids including multi-instrumentalist Eamon (Mark McKenna) and duo Larry (Conor Hamilton) and Garry (Karl Rice).

Another classmate, Ngig (Percy Chamburuka), is headhunted because, as Conor innocently observes: "He's bound to play something. He's black."

Buoyed by initial success, Conor and Eamon get their creative juices flowing to pen original songs inspired by The Jam, Spandau Ballet and The Cure.

Meanwhile, Conor urgently seeks advice from Brendan about wooing Raphina, whose boyfriend drives around town with Genesis blaring from his stereo.

"No woman can truly love a man who listens to Phil Collins," counsels Brendan.

Sing Street is 106 minutes of fizzing, pop-infused joy that unfolds though the innocent, questioning eyes of sensitive teenager Conor and his brothers in musical arms.

Writer-director Carney conjures lovely scenes like Conor and his siblings dancing around a bedroom to the Hall & Oates classic Maneater, while their parents argue downstairs, or a feel-good dream sequence in a school gymnasium.

Walsh-Peelo anchors the young cast with a performance of touching vulnerability, and his chemistry with on-screen brother Reynor leaves a big lump in the throat.

Songs composed especially for the film by Carney and Gary Clark, including the barn-storming Drive It Like You Stole It, are perfectly crafted.

Ireland need to recruit them for next year's Eurovision.

One-stop shop for kids' fun!

TWO mums from Hertfordshire have joined forces to launch a new website www.kidzcentral.co.uk. The site is designed to help families search for and book the best classes, activities and party ideas for their children based in their local area.

Julie Morrow and Daisy Hodgson created www.kidzcentral.co.uk to ease the lives of busy parents looking to fuel their children's enthusiasm.

Along with the simple search functionality, the site enables parents to manage bookings for classes or parties.

No longer will a mother or father have to trawl the internet and local listings, they can now search by type of class, cost, day, time, drop-in or termly classes, or even those classes with a free trial.

Parents can add themselves to the waiting list of a class that is full at the click of a button, and if a class is not currently running in their area, the site allows parents to request one.

The inspiration behind the site emerged from the founders' own experiences after moving their families to Hertfordshire when Daisy's husband, Charlie, signed for professional rugby club Saracens and Julie's husband, Phil, took on the role of performance director at the club, moving the family from their native Belfast.

Mum-of-five Daisy, director of marketing and strategy, said: "We were always looking for holiday camps, sports clubs and swimming schools, the usual clubs which most parents at some point have to Google.

"It became frustrating when we had to enquire, telephone, print forms out from the internet and pay with either a cheque book or send a bank transfer."

Owner of Kidz Central UK and mum of two boys Julie Morrow explained: "Having spoken to other parents who were similarly frustrated like Daisy and I, we thought it would be so much easier to centralise all the information."

After months of searching for similar websites, Julie came across Kidz Central Station (www.kidzcentralstation.com) and approached owner Lauren Pohl to pick her brains.

"Lauren's story was similar to my own in a lot of ways: a working mother who was frustrated with the difficulty in finding some sort of online booking system.

"So three years ago, Lauren started Kidz Central Station in New York."

After speaking to Lauren, Julie was given the opportunity to license Kidz Central Station and bring it to the UK.

"And here we are, starting our adventure in Hertfordshire and the surrounding area, with the intention of scaling it out beyond in due course, all being well," said Julie.

"We hope to provide an easy-to-use service that local parents can trust," added Daisy. "We all would like our children to go out and experience as much as possible, try new things and meet new people.

"In Hertfordshire, we're blessed that there's so much for a family to do. We know parents have little time, so instead of spending precious time searching all over the web, they can now find (and book) the best kids' activities all in one place."

AFTER SCHOOL &amp; WEEKEND ACTIVITIES

FESTIVALS are growing in popularity every year. Music, culture, friends, family, food and drink – what's not to like?

And as the generations who grew up going to summer festivals are having children of their own and taking them along, there is now a vast array of family events taking place up and down the country.

"Families should expect plenty of variety," says Jennie Rainsford, festival director of Lechlade Festival (May 27-29, www.lechladefestival.co.uk).

"It's an ideal opportunity to introduce youngsters to live music and a range of other activities.

"I'd recommend starting with a smaller festival, as it will be friendlier, more flexible and easier to navigate."

From big, brilliant and expensive to small, fun and free, there really is something for everyone this year.

TOP FAMILY FESTIVALS

THE BIG FEASTIVAL (THEBIGFEASTIVAL.COM)

WHERE: Alex James' Farm, Kingham, The Cotswolds

WHEN: August 26-28, 2016

WHY: Celebrating its fifth birthday, expect great music from the likes of Mark Ronson and the Kaiser Chiefs, delicious eats and foodie stars, kids' favourites Justin Fletcher and Dick and Dom, plus The Family Olympics, Little Dudes' Den and lots more to keep the littl'uns entertained.

LATITUDE FESTIVAL

(WWW.LATITUDEFESTIVAL.COM)

WHERE: Henham Park, Southwold, Suffolk

WHEN: July 14-17, 2016

WHY: There's a huge amount for families to do at Latitude. From crafting and workshops to an Inbetweeners' Teen Area, there's music, comedy, science, food and fun around every corner. Some great acts are playing this year too,

Monster mash up

Mysterious Chelmsford duo Cassetteboy tell Darryl Webber about their subversive videos and what we can expect from their anarchic live show at the Reading Festival this summer

You don't get much in the way of protest music these days, certainly not much that reaches a mass audience. But a duo from Chelmsford have been making waves with their satirical swipes at those in power with great effect for the last eight years.

Anonymous duo Cassetteboy splice together video clips of politicians and celebrities talking with familiar songs to form hilarious parodies that make serious points. Their latest mash-up, featuring health secretary Jeremy Hunt, is a barbed commentary on the dispute with junior doctors put to the tune of YMCA and timed to coincide with the doctors' strike. It's had more than half a million views and is likely to be as influential as any speech or utterance by a politician or commentator.

It carries on a long and dishonourable Cassetteboy tradition of mocking and undermining the rich and powerful, but that's not how things started off. It all began with making mixtapes back in Chelmsford as Mike (not his real name) explains.

"We just used to put together these tapes for parties and add little bits of talking and dialogue between the songs," says Mike. "We'd use snippets from Radio 4 and whatever else seemed to fit. Gradually it got to the point where there was more and more of the talking bits and less music. Some people liked it, some people couldn't get into loops of newsreaders saying silly things."

Among those who liked it were some friends who ran the record label Spymania, who released electronic experimentalist Squarepusher's early material.

"They wanted to release our tapes so we did an album for them and it's evolved from there," says Mike modestly.

That evolution took in a few recordings and releases (including an album about the journey through life using samples from EastEnders, Doctor Who and Match

Of The Day) before Cassetteboy moved into working with video full time.

"Our breakthrough video was The Apprentice [in 2009]. It took four months of looking through 48 episodes of The Apprentice to do that. There's a huge amount of raw material you have to go through," says Mike.

The hard work was worth it though. The video mash-up of Alan Sugar's dialogue on the reality show yielded more than five million views and suddenly the world was taking notice of Cassetteboy.

"It was a massive moment for us. It showed us YouTube was a natural home for us. We could access the whole world, we just needed to edit and upload."

Which they've been doing ever since, typically targeting government ministers with their satirical takedowns, the most recent of which features that Jeremy Hunt mash up.

"It has to be something we feel strongly about and know we can do something funny with," Mike says. "With Jeremy Hunt, the phrase 'My NHS' kept popping into our heads and it seemed obvious to mix it with YMCA."

That's bound to form part of Cassetteboy's live show as they perform at festivals during the summer, including a customary appearance at Glastonbury as well as shows at Latitude, Festival No. 6 and Reading.

"We don't show our faces. We go to ridiculous lengths to stay anonymous," Mike admits. "We wear silly costumes and hit each other with inflatable hammers. We just make idiots of ourselves."

"We enjoy playing festivals. I think after people are a bit frazzled at a festival after a day or two, our show makes complete sense."

■ Cassetteboy V DJ Rubbish are at the Alternative Stage of the Reading Festival on Sunday, August 28. Find out more at www.readingfestival.com

Audience is locked into unusual coming-of-age drama

FIRST night logistical problems took some of the shine from an otherwise triumphant piece of creative theatre from Dante or Die.

In association with Harlow Playhouse, Handle with Care was performed inside Harlow Lok'nStore as small audiences followed protagonist Zoe around the corridors of the storage centre.

Fashions, music and most importantly possessions change as Zoe transforms from a free-spirited young lady in her 20s in 1988 to a divorced but determined mother in 2016 over the 90 minutes.

The energetic Amy Dolan is replaced by the assured Rachael Spence as the lead half-way through.

Boyfriends, ex-husbands and finally her teenage daughter all join Zoe for individual scenes at appropriate stages.

Two consistencies are the haunting figures of Zoe's brother Micky and Dante or Die co-founder Terry O'Donovan as a Lok'nStore employee.

Watching as a fly on the wall, audiences are expected to move out of the way as the cast go about their lives. This feels fun and original, even if one is conscious of being a voyeur or constantly in the way.

The fourth wall remains unbroken throughout, and despite being on your feet for an hour and a half the plot is fast, absorbing and feels fresh.

To ensure maximum audience numbers, Dolan runs back to the beginning as her older double takes over and begins the show again with a second audience.

Meanwhile, Spence finishes the plot with the first audience before running back to again meet Dolan half way.

This sequence repeats several times and is where the play begins to falter. The logistical impossibilities of achieving the feet cause the performances to run later and later – until the final performance starts more than 45 minutes after billed.

Lok'nStore staff were welcoming and hospitable, but three-quarters of an hour is a long time to wait in a foyer of a storage centre.

Perhaps staging two simultaneous performances was over ambitious.

However, the play itself can hardly be faulted. The presence of lava lamps, VHS tapes and washed denim to a soundtrack of Nirvana and Supergrass is enough to make anyone feel nostalgic.

But, crucially, the play does not make a cheesy point about growing older and does it project age as a grim inevitability.

Interestingly, it explores the value of possessions and the meaning of the items that we treasure. It creates a thought-provoking, but also an entertainingly weird night out at the theatre.

Four stars.

RECIPE:

Fish Pie

INGREDIENTS:

500ml milk
300g salmon fillet
300g white fish (cod or haddock)
125g raw large prawns, peeled and de-veined
1 small onion, quartered
1 bay leaf
4 black peppercorns
100g butter
50g plain flour
handful of finely chopped fresh parsley
salt and pepper
200g washed baby spinach (optional)
1 kg potatoes (Maris Piper or Kind Edwards are best)
50g butter
50ml milk
50g grated mature cheddar cheese

METHOD:

1. Heat the milk in a large, shallow pan. Heat the milk to just short of boiling – you should just see a few small bubbles around the edges of the pan. Add the fish in large chunks (approx. 4cm) along with the onion and bay leaf and four black peppercorns. Reduce the heat and simmer for 8 mins, turning the fish once during that time. Lift the fish onto a plate and strain the milk into a jug to cool. Flake the fish into large pieces in a large ovenproof dish. Then add the raw prawns and mix thoroughly.
2. Make the parsley sauce. Melt the butter in a pan very slowly, then add the flour and stir well until you have a paste. Add the reserved milk from poaching the fish very gradually, stirring briskly all the time. Keep the heat on and keep stirring until the sauce thickens, this should take about five minutes. When the sauce is thick enough to coat the back of the spoon, you can take the pan off the heat, season with salt and pepper and add the finely-chopped parsley.
3. Scatter the spinach leaves on top of the poached fish, then pour the sauce over the fish mix in the baking dish, making sure the fish and spinach are completely covered in the sauce. Now preheat the oven to 180°C (fan).
4. Peel and chop the potatoes into big chunks, then cook in salted, boiling water until soft and cooked through. This should take 25-30 minutes. Drain off the water and allow the potatoes to dry off in the open pan. Then mash with the butter and 50ml of milk and season well with salt and pepper.
5. Finally, add the mashed potato to the top of the fish, scatter over the grated cheese and bake in the oven for 40 minutes until golden and bubbling on top. Serve with peas or any steamed green vegetables.

Home comfort for tough times

SAIRA

with Masterchef
semi-finalist Saira Hamilton

WELL, the time has finally arrived. My daughter Lily starts her GCSE exams this week, so as you can imagine the stress levels in our house are through the roof.

It seems hard to comprehend that she has come to this point already. Through my happy tears at the Leventhorpe leavers' assembly last week, I found it hard to process the fact that she has become this rather wonderful young adult when it seems like yesterday that she stood proudly in the playground at Thriplow School, with her unruly hair in braids, clutching her brand new book bag for her very first day of school.

I was particularly proud that she won a special award during the assembly; the Mary Berry award for baking.

Lily has inherited my belief that everything in life can be enhanced with the addition of cake, so on any occasion, be it a birthday, a teacher leaving or heading off on maternity leave, or any excuse really, will require her to spend hours making cakes for the entire class.

She was also named as most likely to become Prime Minister, so watch out for that!

But back to the exams. We've heard a lot about SATs recently and the stress associated with testing in primary school, but these GCSEs are a whole other level. The sheer number of exams and the breadth of the subjects is quite frightening. I vaguely remember it myself, but to be honest I don't remember doing a whole lot of work for my GCSEs (don't tell Lily that!) I guess I must have done, but I only really remember sunbathing in Castle Gardens with a text book on my lap.

I have asked several friends how to cope with the stress and what I should be doing as a parent to alleviate the symptoms, though clearly I can do nothing about the cause.

I read somewhere that whatever you say as a parent will be wrong. If you seem very caring and interested in what they are doing and get involved in revision, you are stifling them and poking your nose in and you couldn't possibly understand. If you try and stay out of it you are accused of not caring. So parents should just accept that whatever you say will be wrong and get used to the sound of slamming doors.

My friend Sue Fishpool from the Lemon Tree explained that her strategy with her son Harry was just to feed him. That was the best thing she could do to support him with his workload. This sounded like a good idea to me, so I am planning to cook all the things that Lily likes and that, I think, will help her work and function as effectively as possible.

We're always told that fish is great brain food, and it's not always the easiest thing to get our children to eat, so I thought I would share my family fish pie recipe with you.

It's got all that lovely fish, but couched in a wonderful cheesy mash and a silky parsley sauce which makes it one of my all-time favourite comfort foods too.

I've used white fish, salmon and prawns in my recipe, as the children are not mad-keen on smoked fish, but some lovely smoked haddock in the fish mix also works a treat.

Here's the recipe for you. If you are one of those households supporting stressed-out, exam-crazed teenagers, give it a go and hopefully it will allow them to relax for a minute and get some good fuel inside them before they launch back into the revision. Good luck to them all!

New home in the old town

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon was the guest of honour when Geoffrey Matthew Estates opened its new offices in Old Harlow on Saturday.

The firm held a Champagne reception to mark its move into the historic Gables building in Fore Street.

Guests and customers were treated to glasses of bubbly and the opportunity to take part in a raffle with prizes donated by local businesses.

The firm also used the opening to host a coffee morning of Macmillan Cancer Support and Cancer Research. Cakes were donated by Dorrington's and Churchgate Stores.

Donations on the day totalled £763.80 and were added to the £19,000 raised by Geoffrey Matthew Estates co-founder Matt Dixon who, along with Heath Greenall, chairman and managing director of car dealership Gates, completed a 12-day coast-to-coast walk across England.

Design heaven

THIS stunning contemporary Newhall home has been custom designed to the owner's exact brief and enjoys a number of unique modern features having been constructed in September 2013.

It is immaculately decorated in cool neutral colours, adding to the feeling of space throughout.

Immediately on entering this home, one is amazed by the three-storey open void reception with its spiral staircase.

To the rear of the property runs a 50ft-long glass walled hallway which overlooks the rear gardens.

The downstairs accommodation has underfloor heating and a lift which services the first and second floor living areas.

The three bedrooms are all double size and complemented by en suite bathrooms.

The first floor has a huge open plan kitchen, dining living space with bi-fold doors that open onto a southerly-facing sun terrace which is ideal for entertaining.

The kitchen is fitted with high specification integrated Miele appliances including fridge and freezer, coffee machine, microwave, lava grill, hot plate and four-ring induction hob.

On the second floor is a secluded large master bedroom with private dressing area and an en suite shower and opens out to its own sun terrace enjoying a westerly facing aspect.

There is a good-sized integral double garage housing the boiler room with additional storage and a laundry area.

The rear gardens are laid out to offer minimal maintenance and there are additional sheds for storage.

By Chris Russon

PEUGEOT is giving its 2008 compact SUV a major revamp with the introduction of a new engine and a bold new look.

The changes have transformed the model and in the case of the new top specification GT Line versions the effect is outstanding.

Replacing the Feline grade on the current 2008, the GT Line cars come with gloss black roof rails and door mirror cappings and black detailing around the windows on top of a restyled nose and more pronounced wheel arches.

It's also available in the stunning red paint finish Peugeot uses on its very hot 308 GTi hatchback.

From the front the 2008 now has a real macho presence – akin to that the 2008 Dakar Rally winning car – with the grille set off by 30 shiny facets and red lettering for the Peugeot name.

The red theme is continued inside in a trim line around the cockpit which illuminates at night and a centre stripe on the seatbelts while the main instruments sit behind Peugeot's smaller than normal 13-inch steering wheel, complete with a flattened bottom.

It's classy, functional and very state of the art with a touchscreen display providing sat nav as well as MirrorLink and Apple CarPlay smartphone connectivity.

Under the bonnet the new 2008 really hits the mark with the arrival of the 130ps derivative of Peugeot's award-winning 1.2-litre PureTech three cylinder petrol engine.

In the new 2008 range this engine is available on from top-but-one Allure specification and fitted with stop/start it is not only feisty but also economical.

The official fuel return is 58.9mpg with emissions of 110g/km. We averaged 37 to the gallon and that's nothing to be sneezed at in what is the quickest of the new 2008 range.

Top speed is a claimed 124mph with a 0 to 60 time of 9.3 seconds which makes it a spritely performer on the SUV scene.

Road holding is more than acceptable and the power delivery is smooth and plentiful through the six-speed manual box – there's no auto option with this engine but such transmissions are available on lower powered versions of the PureTech engine and on the diesels.

The new 2008 line up is priced from £13,615 to £20,565 which is an increase of a few hundred pounds over the previous model.

The 130ps GT Line 2008 costs from £19,315 and for a sub-£20,000 SUV it is highly competitive.

Not only does the new 2008 look posh it is also very purposeful courtesy of Peugeot's electronic Grip Control system.

Instead of a full blown 4x4 set up, which adds weight and impacts on fuel consumption, Grip Control enables the 2008 to be surprisingly capable over poor surfaces. It can be set to tackle sand, snow and mud and each setting gives the car optimum front wheel traction.

We tried it through soft sand more than a foot deep and the 2008 pulled through without difficulty.

As such it is an off-roader that weighs less than 1.7 tonnes yet still has a towing capacity of 1.27 tonnes – well suited for those who want a car with a little extra.

It's a snazzy all-rounder and very family-oriented with boot space ranging from 410 to 1,400 litres. Loading is helped by a low boot sill which stands just two feet off the ground.

First deliveries are slated for July and the new model looks set to build on the success of the original 2008 which has notched up more than 40,000 sales in the UK since its launch in 2013.

With its striking looks, clever drive system, lashings of refinement and high on value for money, Peugeot has created a compelling piece of kit with the GT Line PureTech 130ps 2008 – enough to make some of the crossover kings from the likes of Nissan, Renault and VW cross indeed.

FIRE PROTECTION

Fire Protection Limited is the UK's Construction Industry leading provider of fire resistant ductwork. Due to our recent expansion we are looking for applicants for the following positions, all based at our Harlow Head Office and Factory.

Project Manager
Engineer
Supervisor
CAD Draughtsperson
Quantity Surveyor
Estimator

We are seeking enthusiastic, hardworking, motivated individuals who currently work in the Construction Industry. Experience within the Ductwork Industry would be an advantage.

The above positions are permanent and full time with a competitive salary.

We also have opportunities for the following Trainees who are looking for a varied career within the Construction Industry:

CAD Draughtsperson
Quantity Surveyor
Estimator

The above trainee positions would suit college / school leavers with GCSEs in Maths, Science and English grades A - C; a BTEC in a Construction Course would be an advantage.

The successful applicants would need to be hardworking, outgoing individuals prepared to attend a day release course in Building Services Engineering. Again the positions are full time with a competitive salary.

The following vacancies at our factory are weekly paid with competitive hourly rates. A 40 hour week Monday to Friday with overtime available, annual holiday allowance is 25 days.

SHEET METAL WORKER: skilled or semi-skilled, preferably experienced in all aspects of ductwork manufacture. Training will be given to the right applicant.

STOREMAN: previous stores and stock taking experience would be an advantage.

SPRAYER: to spray coatings on our ductwork, full training provided.

GENERAL FACTORY OPERATIVE: for varied factory duties.

Please apply in writing, enclosing your CV to:

Janice Lazell-Wood, Fire Protection Ltd, Flamebar House, South Road, Harlow, Essex CM20 2AR.

Or via email to: jlazellwood@fireprotection.co.uk

Sir John Lawes
Academies Trust

School Business Managers

Sheredes School - Hoddesdon

Sir John Lawes School - Harpenden

Grade: M1 Hours: 37 hours per week

Term time plus INSET + 3 weeks (including last week of August)

Due to the expansion of the SJL Academies Trust, an exciting opportunity has arisen for us to appoint two further School Business Managers based at Sir John Lawes School or Sheredes School. These key positions will assist with the strategic vision of the Trust in all aspects of budget, finance, premises and administration.

The successful candidates will:

- demonstrate sound business management and finance practice
- have experience of, and confidence in, generating income streams and budgetary savings
- be up-to-date in their knowledge of current education policy and practice or be willing to learn

They will work as part of a team using their own initiative, often without supervision. The capacity to work under pressure is essential as well as having a flexible attitude and the ability to adapt to change.

SJL Academies Trust is a small multi academy trust that manages day to day finances centrally at a base in St Albans. The successful candidates will be very much supported in their role by an experienced team and line manager.

Visits are welcomed to the schools and/or the central office.

Further details and an application form are available from

Shirley O'Donovan email: sodonovan@sjl.herts.sch.uk;

phone: 01582 760043; website: www.sjl.herts.sch.uk

Closing date: 12.00 noon 6th June 2016

Interview date: 14th and/or 15th May 2016

Sir John Lawes Academies Trust is an equal opportunities employer. The trust is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment. Applicants must be willing to undergo child protection screening, including checks with past employers and the Disclosure & Barring Service.

Claire Petulengro YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 – APRIL 20
Close ones who have been acting distant start to resume a sense of normalcy thanks to the help of Mercury, the planet of communication. Don't expect to ever hear the whole story of what they've been going through though, but do accept that it didn't have anything to do with you directly, my friend. Ring now to hear why this is a great week for selling and buying for your sign.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 – MAY 21
You have been confused as to what the right thing to do is, but that's because you haven't properly explored all your options. Try to give yourself more time. If you do, then you'll see that your actions and thoughts will all be confident ones. News from far away gives you several reasons to look forward to the summer. Ring now to hear which sign can't help expanding on the truth.

GEMINI MAY 22 – JUNE 21
Your energy for life is back in abundance and that feeling of paranoia is at last lifted. You do tend to take things a little too personally lately, but this weekend you get to realise that not everything that occurred was actually about you. Time spent with family this weekend gives you reason to be proud of where you come from. Ring now to hear how you hold the power to seduce.

CANCER JUNE 22 – JULY 22
Travel is well starred and you no longer feel scared to take chances. You are willing to take life head on. Don't let jealousy push you into giving bad advice to someone who is leaning on you for support. You'll only feel upset with yourself later when you realise how much they have changed. Ring now to hear how Saturday gives you the power to negotiate well in financial deals.

LEO JULY 23 – AUGUST 23
What starts off as a fun flirtation could have turned into a very serious one by the time this week comes to a close. Life is becoming so much more interesting from this week onwards. You have grown in so many ways and this is shown in the business and financial decisions you will make by Friday. Ring now to hear who I think has been the cause of unnecessary restrictions recently.

VIRGO AUGUST 24 – SEPTEMBER 22
You would be wiser to cut your losses and move on than to try to get revenge on the person who has upset you. You and I both know you're bigger and better than petty actions of destruction. Family want more than you're willing to give this weekend, but, by showing your support, you'll get to find out much that you did not know before. Ring now so we can make the most of life and love.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 – OCTOBER 23
Health and energy signs are good and you start to feel in control and positive about the events which left you feeling so trapped this time last week. A new face in your social circle is set to affect your future and your heart in more ways than you could possibly imagine. Gemini link to a career path worth following. Ring now so we can uncover who is behind those tales told on you recently.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 – NOVEMBER 21
New skills you've recently acquired can and will open many new doors for you. It's a case this week of, if you think you can you will and if you think you can't you won't! Don't be afraid of taking charge of your life, this is what you've been waiting for my friend. Fun times link to someone who wasn't free but now is, from Thursday. Ring now so we can talk about your future.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 – DECEMBER 20
I can see you've changed a lot in recent weeks and months and I really admire that you've taken on board all the lessons life has had to teach you. You're stronger and better for it my friend. A new attraction comes at a price. One which you may not be willing to pay. Sleep on such important decisions to get the most from what's occurring. Ring now so I can help you realise your dreams.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 – JANUARY 20
You have had not only your own problems to cope with, but also the dramas of friends and it has left you feeling exhausted and unsure of where you're going. Stick to your original game plan Capricorn. By finishing what you've started, you will create fresh inspiration to keep going. Pisceans give your career a boost midweek. Ring now so I can tell you about tomorrow today.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 – FEBRUARY 19
I know things feel as if they have not really gone to plan, but I'm here to tell you that your plan has been replaced. Your future course is actually far more suited to the needs you will have in the future. Gemini link to good times if you give in to their pleas and invites. Ring now to reveal your destiny.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 – MARCH 20
You begin to look at life from a new and improved angle and, where last month you saw no hope in certain issues, now you see every hope. Children appear to be of greater significance than usual and contact you have with them can result in them making some really positive decisions about their future. Ring now to hear why it's worth being the consummate professional in your time week.

Essex County Council

(Various Roads, Harlow) (Bus Lane) Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Sections (1), (2), (3), (3/2) and Part III & IV to Schedule 9 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, previously advertised as The Essex County Council (Various Roads, Harlow) (Experimental Bus Lane) Order 2014.

Effect of the order: To add an exemption to allow private hire vehicles licensed by Harlow District Council to use the existing bus lanes in A1025 Second Avenue, First Avenue/Mandela Avenue, A1019 Velizy Avenue/Central Avenue and Fifth Avenue, Harlow.

The Essex County Council (First Avenue (Westbound & Eastbound), Harlow) (Bus Lane) Order 2009, the District of Harlow (Various Roads, Harlow) (Reserved Bus Lane) Order 2002 and any other existing bus lane orders, relating to First Avenue, Second Avenue, Central Avenue and Fifth Avenue are hereby revoked.

The Essex County Council (Various Roads, Harlow) (Experimental Bus Lane) Order 2014 is hereby revoked.

Date of operation: The Order will come into operation on 20 May 2016

Further details: A copy of the Order and plans may be examined during normal office hours at County Hall, Chelmsford CM1 1LX.

Application to the high court: Anyone who wishes to question the validity of the Order of any provision contained in it on the grounds that it is not within the powers conferred by the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 or on the grounds that any requirement of the Act, or any instrument made under it, has not been complied with in relation to the Order, may within six weeks from the date of the making of the Order apply to the High Court for this purpose.

(London Road, Harlow)

(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic) Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of London Road, in the District of Harlow from its junction with The Chase to a point approximately 237m south of its junction with Gilden Way Roundabout.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 1st June 2016 for three days 09:30 to 18:00 or where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting. The closure is required for the safety of the public and workforce while surfacing and replacement of rumble strips is undertaken.

The alternative route will be via Southbound - London Road, B183 First Avenue, A414 Church Langley Way, London Road. Northbound - London Road, Church Langley Way, A414, B183 First Avenue, London Road.

Access for pedestrians will be maintained at all times during the closure.

The Order will come into effect on 1st June 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

'My Ladies can Walk prem title next year'

Keeper insists quadruple queens can go up again

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

GOALKEEPER Sarah Walker is convinced her quadruple-winning Harlow Ladies team can secure a second successive promotion next season and continue their stunning success.

Having already captured the Essex Women's League Division One title, plus the Essex County Women's Trophy and the Tilbury & District Charity Cup, Harlow completed an incredible season with a win in the Essex League Cup, beating a team in the division above them.

Grant Palmer's team are targeting National League status and are determined to win the Essex Premier Division title next year.

Walker beamed: "I would back us to win the Premier Division too as we beat the teams who came second, fourth, sixth and seventh on our cup runs."

Team spirit

The Hawks came out 5-3 winners over Runwell Hospital Ladies in their final game of the season last weekend, the Essex League Cup final.

Walker said: "To win these [four trophies] we played 28 games and won 28.

"The key to success was a hugely talented team who have been well coached for many years. We also had really good team spirit throughout the season."

Goalscorers in the League Cup final were Eliza Weeks, sub Tia Dye (2), Philippa Stephens and Abbie Bensted.

This is the first year the team have played under the Harlow Town FC banner, with matches at The Harlow Arena.

The Ladies won their first trophy back in March, with a comprehensive 5-0 win over Wickford in the Essex County Women's Trophy.

They then followed that up with a 6-0 win over Walden in the Tilbury & District Charity Cup.

With a 100 per cent league record, with 18 wins out of 18, they secured the Essex County Women's League Division One title, before Sunday's win completed an historic quadruple.

The league is where the Hawks have come into their own, scoring 167 goals in 17 matches.

Their opposition conceded their final match so this was not played.

They conceded only eight goals and will go up to the Essex Premier Division with huge expectations.

In all, Harlow Ladies only lost one game all season, against Charlton Athletic.

The Addicks went on to finish third in the Women's Premier Division Southern Division, the third step of English women's football, showing how talented this Hawks squad is.

The Harlow team for the League Cup final consisted of: Sarah Walker, Megan Sende, Christie Seakens, Imogen Palmer (C), Phoebe McMurray, Riley Bennett, Eliza Weeks, Victoria Hill, Philippa Stephens, Abbie Bensted and Nene McInerney. Subs: Catherine Kelly, Tia Dye, Chloe Ring.

Great start for Harlow AC

HARLOW AC triumphed in their first Southern Athletics League match of the season at St Ives.

Athletes from the Mark Hall Sportscentre-based club won a phenomenal 38 events.

There were several debuts moving up into the U17 age group plus new members.

Andy Smith, Charles Tankeh, Lewis Harknett, Teale Cunningham, Leo Chaschin, Valerie Harknett, Bethany Harriman and Ruvimbo Mukachana made debuts for the senior team.

Personal bests (PBs) were achieved by Glen Paxman (40.93m javelin), Carl Paxman (8.77m shot put), U17 Leo Chaschin (1.45m shot put) and Polly Woods (22.17m discus).

Harlow won both the men's relays, with Donald Campbell running a fantastic 4x400m third leg as Harlow won by 11 seconds.

Harlow are top of the Division Three North table.

Final results: Harlow 358 points, Huntingdonshire 341, Newham and Essex Beagles 150, West Norfolk 109, Barnet and District 67.

Beth ready for World Games

BETH HARRYMAN is gearing up to represent Great Britain in the World Catholic School Games in Beauvais, France, in July.

The Harlow Athletic Club member took bronze in the Essex County Pentathlon Championships.

The 15-year-old St Mark's student recorded top results in the 80m hurdles, shot put, high jump, long jump (5.07m PB) and 800m.

Going into the final event, Beth had a lead of 300 points, but ended with bronze after a good points total of 2746.

Previously she won the Essex Indoor Championships with a 1.63m leap, which puts her 15th in the UK in the U17 age group.

Terrific turnout

THERE was a top turnout from Harlow Running Club in the first race of the Herts/Essex Midweek Road Race League Division Two.

Hosted by Bishop's Stortford RC over a hilly multi-terrain 10K course, 59 Harlow runners competed: 38 men and 21 women.

Both men's and women's teams were fourth and overall HRC were fourth out of 11 teams.

First home for Harlow was Rob Lowe in sixth out of 198.

First woman was Sharon Wright in 13th out of 120.

Medal bonanza for gymnasts

A HAUL of medals were won by Harlow Gymnastics Club at the Essex County Recreational Levels competition in Colchester.

Taylah Andrews Clark, 15, took gold overall in the Level 5 age 16/18 competition.

The St Mark's student also won golds on beam and floor, silver on bars and bronze on vault.

Twin sister Halle Andrews Clark won bronze overall after winning the silver medal on vault and bronze medals for bars, beam and floor.

In the Level Five age 11/12 event, Poppy Bishop, 12, took silver overall after earning gold in bars and floor, plus silver for vault and beam.

St Mark's student Millie Upton, 11, was fifth overall after taking fourth on bars and fifth on vault.

Liberty Miller, 11, took fourth on beam and sixth on bars and vault for sixth overall.

Ten-year-old Bethany Porter was seventh after fifth on beam and sixth on bars.

Thrill of the chase falls short

Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two
Leigh on Sea . . . . . 294-1
Harlow Town . . . . . 274-6
Match drawn

HARLOW Town drew with Leigh-on-Sea in their first home Shepherd Neame Essex League game of the season.

After Leigh declared on a mammoth 294-1 after 46.2 overs, Town were 274-6 in reply after 48 overs when the match was declared a draw.

The match saw a Phoenix Park debut for Town's Jamaican overseas star all-rounder Chris Powell.

After winning the toss, Town skipper Neil Gladwin put Leigh in to bat.

Gladwin rolled back the years by donning the gloves behind the wicket and used his nous to stump influential opener Iain McDonald on 70.

Town threw everything at Leigh, with Jamaican Powell once again impressive, but some devastating hitting left the visitors close to 300.

finished on 100no (from 43 balls), with opener Jon Edwards on 105no (from 145 balls).

In reply, the solid start didn't materialise for Town as first Ashley Alderson was adjudged LBW for two and Shiraz Ali was caught for four, leaving the hosts struggling at 9-2.

This wicket brought Town's two most experienced players together.

Joe Holland (137) and Gladwin (106) mustered 228 runs from the next 227 balls, batting beautifully.

When Holland departed after an imperious knock, Town were 237-3, needing 58 to win.

Despite Gladwin's exit and a run out for Dan Farmer, Dan Baldwin and Shaun Alderson tried desperately with 21 needed off the last over, but this proved too much as Town sealed a draw.

Results

HARLOW & DISTRICT FOOTBALL LEAGUE, Prem Div: Rouge Returns 6 (James Thomas 3, Ricky Cook 2, Jack Thomas), Old Town 2; Pools 1, Ridsenwood 2 (Guy Barker, Liam Kennedy).

Div One: Ridsenwood Res 2, Parsloe Ath 8 (Jayden Purdie 3, Andy Fleming 2, Jamie Cross, Matt Shrubsole, Leigh Smith).

HARLOW PREMIER DARTS LEAGUE: (May 13): Mick McNally & Helen Garbutt won the mixed pairs knockout after coming through their first four matches without dropping a leg. McNally & Garbutt beat Mark Stock and Jade Gofford 2-1 to win the best-of-three legs final. Stock & Gofford came through their semi-final, beating Paul Greedy & Janet Byford 2-1. McNally & Garbutt beat Jason Phillips and Penny Kilmeck 2-0 in the other semi. Quarter-finals: Mark Stock & Jade Gofford 2, Chris Squirell & Janet Byford 1; Paul Greedy & Janet Byford 2, Denise & Gary Howard 1; Roy & Carla Leftwich 1, Jason Phillips & Penny Kilmeck 2; Mick McNally & Helen Garbutt 2, Darren & Millie Harlow 0.

Athlete's Euro Champs warm-up for Rio Paralympics

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RICHARD CHIASSARO has been selected to represent Great Britain at the European Championships in Italy.

The Harlow Athletic Club member will be competing in the T54 wheelchair 100m, 200m, 400m and 800m, and has also been picked for the relay team.

Chiassaro, of Seymours in Harlow, has high hopes for the competition as he gets in tip-top condition for this year's Paralympic Games in Rio de Janeiro when he is expected to represent Great Britain.

He was unlucky to miss out on the London 2012 Olympics when the British Olympic Association did not pick athletes in Chiassaro's category.

He said: "I'm in great shape and form and my results recently speak for themselves. Can't wait to take the next move towards Rio."

"It took me five years to get picked for a major competition and I felt like stopping many times. I felt that all my time and effort was all for nothing."

Message

"But I carried on and the reward of finally being selected made everything worth it."

He also had a message for athletes who missed out and cited his own experience of how one can continue working hard and make amends.

He said: "Just because you didn't make it this time does not mean you are a bad athlete so please don't think it does."

"I have seen many great performances in the last three competitions. One day with hard work you will make it."

"Cheer your country and friends on this time and in the future we can do the same for you."

Last October, Chiassaro made his debut for GB at the IPC World Championships in 40 degree heat in Qatar.

He competed in the T54 wheelchair 100 metres, 200m and 400m, but failed to progress to the finals of all three events.

The closest he came was in the 100m when he clocked a time of 14.80sec but narrowly missed out on the second and final qualifying spot from his heat as he finished third.

Chiassaro, who has spina bifida, has enjoyed a fantastic 18 months where he has closed the gap in the world's best and remains in the top six in the IPC world T54 rankings in his specialist events: 100m and 200m.

Aussie shows class in draw

Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One

Woodford Wells . . . . . 293-3d
Harlow . . . . . 217-3

Match drawn

HARLOW played out a draw at Woodford Wells as both teams head into next weekend still looking for their first win of the Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One season.

Michael Arblaster, a 22-year-old opening batsman from Sydney in Australia, starred for Wells but in their eagerness to notch up mountains of runs might have forgotten that they needed time to dismiss their opponents.

For the second week running Harlow's Nicky Baxter bowled an opener with his first ball, this time Tanveer Shah (3).

Arblaster reached his 50 off 64 balls, but Harlow made a breakthrough when Ahmed Khawaja's direct hit ran out Joe Johnson (47).

Jonathan Gaffney (55) was removed when wicket-keeper Alan Jones took a stumping chance created by the hard-working Luke Heskett (1-78).

Onslaught

Arblaster's late onslaught took his score to a magnificent 158 not out and Wells on to 293-3 at their 50-over declaration.

Harlow's reply got off to a poor start when Jones (0) top-edged to bowler George Ellis.

The visitors were reduced to 27-2 when skipper Rehman Ahmed (10) was out, bowled by Usman Sahar.

Hafiz Yawar and Khawaja batted with authority in a partnership of 136, guiding Harlow towards 200 and maximum batting points.

Khawaja was eventually caught behind off the bowling of Sahar having hit 61 off 64 balls, his innings containing three fours and two huge sixes.

Ubaid Kiani contributed an unbeaten run-a-ball 32.

Hafiz brought up his century in the penultimate over of the innings with a terrific drive through mid-off.

Harlow eventually finished on 217-3.

Harlow skipper Ahmed said: "We were simply played out of the game by their pro. His 150 was chanceless and having 45 overs to chase that amount was a tall order."

"We'll rethink our tactics before next week's game."
